As the world waits to see if Congress will fix the $17 billion budget deficit in the upcoming 2011 fiscal year that begins on October 1, it might be helpful to know that the federal debt has surpassed the GDP of the entire world. The debt is now 5.1 trillion. That is more than half of world GDP – and almost 300 percent of global GDP. The previous record was 220 percent, the year after the U.S. economy peaked. Since the moment it was founded, the United States has been blessed with enlightened leadership. There has been no greater gift bestowed upon mankind. As the Preeminent Business Publication, Business Week is arguably the most important business magazine in the world. In recent years, however, the editors have stepped out of the picture and let the staffers do their own thing. The end result has been a magazine of little substance that does little to promote business. Dr. David Archibald, the esteemed biological scientist who died e79caf774b
